Select Academy in 1857.

President Lincoln appointed him a second lieutenant of the 8th United States Infantry, June 25, 1861. He served continuously with this regiment until his resignation as first lieutenant 1828.

January 9, 1866.
In July of 1863 Lieut. Weaver, with his regiment, was ordered out of the field and sent to New York city to put down the draft riots, the regiment being transported there on cattle cars. young lieutenant was in command battalion of the regiment located

Lieut. Weaver next was in command of a battalion of the regiment to the draft rendezvous for the southern disdraft rendezvous for the southern district of New York on Rikers Island, from which he was sent to Hart Island after Rikers was abandoned as a military post. He was acting chief of staff to Gen. N. J. Jackson, commanding the post. While on Rikers Island he organized the 20th, 26th and 30th United States colored troops, from the more than 4,000 colored men on the island.

Joins Gen. Grant's Forces.

Returning with his regiment to the field in 1864, he joined the forces under Gen. Grant, and began the march that led to the fighting at the Wilderness Spotsylvania, etc. During those movements the regiment was attached to the 9th Army Corps, serving under Gen. Burnside and Gen. Parke, Gen. Burnside and Gen. Parke.

In August, 1864, Lieut. Weaver was the senior officer on duty with the regiment, and was in command of it, and the muster rolls of that month on file in the War Department are signed by him as commanding the regiment. Being taken ill with a severe attack of malarial fever, he was sent out of the field in September, 1864, and went to the officers' hospital in the Naval Academy at Annapolis. While convalescent he was detailed as acting assistant adjutant general to Gen. Adrian R. Root, commanding the district of Annapolis and Camp Parole, From there he was ordered to New York city as mustering officer, and was so serving when the war ended. After the close of the war the regiment was ordered to Baltimore and was encamped in Lafayette Park. He was ordered to Baltimore and was encamped in Lafayette Park. He was then detached from the regiment, in 1865, and appointed on the staff of Gen. W. S. Hancock, commanding the midle military district, as commissary of the proposition of the photoplays.

Came to Capital in 1845.

Mr. Weaver was born in Gettysburg, Adams county, Pa., August 29, 1841. He came with his parents to Washington March 5, 1845, his father being such an ardent whig that "he laid over in Baltimore until after March 4, as he would not come on to Washington to see President Polk inaugurated," according to Mr. Weaver's own account. Practically a lifelong resident of Washington, Mr. Weaver was educated in the public schools here, and was graduated from the old Washington Select Academy in 1857.

President Lincoln appointed him a second lieutenant of the 8th United States Infantry, June 25, 1861. He aerved continuously with this regiment until his resignation as first lieutenant January 9, 1866.

Film Features.

"Rags"-"Sold."

"Rags" will be the photoplay feature shown at the Columbia Theater the first four days of next week, starting Sunday afternoon. It is a story of a girl's triumphant rise from the lowest strata of life to a position of social importance, through which she finds it possible to marry the man she loves.

Mary Pickford, for whom the story was especially written by Edith Bernard Edizon will be victured in the worder. "Rags" will be the photoplay feature in Union Square, supporting a battery of artillery from Connecticut, which had been ordered from the field for service during the July riots.
